Background

Established in 1999 in CA.

Limitations

Giving primarily in Marin, San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties (in the area of early childhood development) and in California and Oregon (environmental restoration projects)

No support for the arts or sectarian religious purposes.

Purpose and Activities

The foundation maintains a two-part grantmaking focus to fund programs that address fundamental causes of societal problems, rather than programs that seek to remedy the effects of those problems. Through its Early Childhood Development Focus Area, the foundation funds programs that help mothers, fathers and caregivers of children (prenatal to age 3) to better cope with the stresses in their lives that might result in depression. Under the Ecosystem Restoration Grants, the foundation focuses on protecting, restoring and revitalizing high priority watershed ecosystems in CA and OR. Within these watersheds, the priorities are promoting the sustainable management of forest and agricultural land, revitalizing streams, and restoring riparian areas, with the goal of enhancing and maintaining self-sustaining watershed ecosystems.

Donor(s)

Paul Brainerd

Background

Established in 1995 in WA.

Limitations

Giving in AK, ID, MT, OR, WA, British Columbia, and the Yukon Territory.

No support for for-profit organizations, or for candidates or lobbying.

No grants to individuals, or for school education campaigns, direct land purchases or easements, endowments, capital campaigns, debt reduction, theoretical research, fellowships, or books and videos that are not components of a broader strategy.

Purpose and Activities

The foundation is a small family foundation which provides innovative grantmaking to Northwest communities and nonprofits to build a lasting conservation ethic at the local, state, and federal level. In addition to funding, it provides expertise to its nonprofit partners and collaborates with other foundations to find new methods of advocacy, policy implementation, and capacity building.

Program Area(s)

The grantmaker has identified the following area(s) of interest:

Conservation Capacity

The foundation defines capacity building as the growth of skills, competencies, and infrastructure needed to achieve a higher level of organizational performance. This program specializes in the areas of communications, leadership development, and planning and innovation. It offers grants that support both the individual organizations, or coalitions, that demonstrate an interest and readiness to increase their effectiveness and the regionally focused nonprofit service providers that serve them. Funding for individual organizations is earmarked for groups already receiving support from the foundation's Conservation Policy or Place-based Conservation programs. Grants in this program range from $20,000 to $75,000.

Conservation Policy

This program invests in state-level policy priorities that build a track record of success and demonstrate the benefits of pro-conservation policies to public officials. Policy grants support the work of organizations most integral to the development of state-level policy. The foundation's strategy is to invest in two or three critical organizations in each state as lead grantees. Resources are focused on those groups that demonstrate the leadership, capacity, and track record to achieve success. Grants in this program range from $20,000 to $50,000.

Grassroots Fund

This fund was established to strengthen the Northwest conservation community at its roots. Grants from this fund are typically made to small organizations confronting critical challenges in their communities. Working directly within the landscapes where they live, these groups have local perspective and knowledge, giving them unique leverage at the local level. Organizations requesting support should demonstrate leadership, offering innovative approaches at the grassroots level; work in geographies or on issues that build on the foundation's strategies and goals; collaborate with other organizations, campaigns or coalitions in the region; and operate with an annual budget (typically no more than $250,000) where a small grant can go a long way. Grants in this program range from $5,000 to $10,000.

Opportunity Fund

Because the best-laid plans can run into the unexpected, the foundation designates a limited amount of funds toward Opportunity Fund grants. These grants are awarded to Northwest-focused organizations confronted with a timely opportunity to impact critical ecosystems or significant conservation policy debates or address critical organizational issues.. The foundation is specifically interested in meeting needs that pertain to outreach, but grants from this fund can also be used for emergent litigation, applied research, leadership, support, and other unexpected needs. Priority is given to requests that fit into a broader strategy or campaign being pursued by conservation advocates in the state or region. Grants in this program range from $250 to $3,000.

Place-based Conservation

The Place-based Conservation funding area recognizes the powerful connection between people and the critical landscapes that nourish the Northwest's ecosystems and communities. Priorities for funding in this program are grounded in the science of conservation biology, as well as the social and political sciences, with an emphasis on pivotal communities where the foundation's investments will have an impact beyond the immediate landscape. All of the foundation's investments in this program serve the larger goal of engaging citizens and communicating their interests to decision-makers. Grants are made to organizations conducting work in one more of these focus areas: the High Divide (in MT and ID), the North Cascades of Washington State, the Crown of the Continent (in British Columbia and MT), and Central Oregon. Although the foundation's place based conservation strategy is about investing deeply in three to four priority landscapes that engage diverse and strategic constituencies and build community support for protecting natural resources, the foundation also stays apprised of new areas and opportunities that might become ripe for near-term investments. Grants in this program range from $20,000 to $50,000.

Members of the Bullitt family

Background

Incorporated in 1952 in WA.

Founded by the late Dorothy S. Bullitt, who was a prominent Seattle businesswoman and philanthropist. She had an instinctive business and entrepreneurial sense as shown in her ability to succeed in radio and television where others didn't. She established King Broadcasting Company, a major owner of broadcast stations in Seattle, Washington. As such, she was the first woman in the United States to buy and manage a television station.

Limitations

Giving in the Pacific Northwest including AK, OR, WA, and British Columbia; giving also in ID and MT.

No support for political organizations.

No grants to individuals (except for fellowships), or for capital campaigns, equipment, building construction, or land acquisition.

Purpose and Activities

Support primarily to safeguard the natural environment by promoting responsible human activities and sustainable communities in the Pacific Northwest.

Program Area(s)

The grantmaker has identified the following area(s) of interest:

Bullitt Environmental Fellowship

The fellowship provides a two-year $50,000 per year award to a graduate student with an outstanding knowledge of the environment and demonstrates an exceptional capacity for leadership as well as scholarship. Applications are encouraged from a broad variety of students with a particular emphasis on students of color and others who have overcome discrimination or other significant hardships.

Ecosystem Services Program

The Ecosystem Services program views biodiversity conservation through a human lens. It favors projects that lie at the interface of human communities and the natural world. It seeks to advance needed innovations in the management of land, air, and water if the Pacific Northwest is to serve as a model of sustainability for the world, and to thrive as a place for its citizens to live and work. Program Objective: To restore and protect the ability of northwest ecosystems to sustain healthy, vibrant human communities and a sound economy. The program targets investments toward organizations and activities that seek to restore and protect the ability of Pacific Northwest ecosystems to provide the products and services needed to sustain human communities. It seeks to illuminate and strengthen the clear links between healthy ecosystems on the one hand, and vibrant human systems on the other. Program priorities: 1) Manage freshwater resources: control, use, distribution, and conservation; 2) Conserve and restore resilient watersheds, wetlands and estuaries; 3) Maintain a working land base for sustainable agriculture and forestry; 4) Enforce laws and policies intended to assure air and water quality; 5) Preserve and steward open space, parks, and associated native biodiversity in the context of human communities; and 6) Create landowner incentives for maintaining and enhancing ecosystem services, including the development of market-based mechanisms.

Energy, Industry and Technology

Program Objective: To will promote policies and actions to harness the entrepreneurial power of business to create competitive industries built on ecological principles and sustainable technologies. The program supports policies that educate students to be ready for the jobs of tomorrow. Program Priorities: 1) Secure adoption and implementation of far-sighted regional energy and climate policies; 2) Attain dramatic reductions in industrial energy use through conservation and efficiency; 3) Accelerate and maximize the installation of renewable energy technologies; 4) Instill an ethic of zero waste practices that result in "reduce, reuse, recycle and compost" for all materials; 5) Eliminate to the degree possible the production and use of toxic materials and biologically active pollutants, and seek to contain and safely recycle any essential toxics; 6) Advance the field of "green chemistry" to demonstrate credible and viable alternatives to substances that harm human health and the environment; and 7) Promote innovative systems, fuels, and infrastructure for commercial transportation systems.

Leadership and Civic Engagement

The program will underwrite efforts to develop the next generation of leaders, providing the resources needed to support leadership training, as well as the organizational assistance needed to recruit and retain individuals with great leadership potential. The Leadership and Civic Engagement program will support initiatives intended to reach young people from all racial, ethnic, and economic groups to attract them into the environmental non-profit sector. Program Objective: To nurture leadership, strengthen organizations, and broaden the coalition to create a more dynamic and powerful constituency for environmental responsibility. Program priorities: 1) Develop and sustain capacity and leadership in the grantee community; 2) Ensure access to and utilization of best available communications techniques and technologies; 3) Educate voters and inspire civic engagement; 4) Foster effective alliances with a diversity of constituencies; and 5) Recognize extraordinary talent and potential with the award of the Patsy Bullitt Collins Environmental Fellowship.

Urban Ecology

The fellowship provides a two-year $50,000 per/year award to a graduate student with an outstanding knowledge of the environment and demonstrates an exceptional capacity for leadership as well as scholarship. Applications are encouraged from a broad variety of students with a particular emphasis on students of color and others who have overcome discrimination or other significant hardships.

McKenzie River Gathering Foundation's Philanthropy Promise

Background

Established in 1976 in OR.

The foundation is a signatory to Philanthropy's Promise, and consequently, will be committing a significant percentage of their grantmaking dollars to meeting the needs of underserved communities, including the financial support of advocacy and civic engagement.

Limitations

Giving limited to OR.

No support for schools, co-ops, or social services.

No grants to individuals.

Purpose and Activities

The foundation funds Oregon-based organizations that organize people to work for progressive social change. It aims to champion groups that challenge the vast social, economic, and political inequities that exist in society, with the goal of creating a peaceful, just, and environmentally sound world. The foundation's grantmaking focuses on efforts within communities that bring people together to address issues in the following areas: human and civil rights, racial justice, economic justice, environmental protection, peace, and international solidarity.

Program Area(s)

The grantmaker has identified the following area(s) of interest:

Critical Response Grants

This fund works to support projects responding to an unanticipated event, opportunity, or crisis that involves organizing people to address an immediate social change issue. Applicants must be based in Oregon and have an organizational budget of $500,000 or less. Grants of up to $2,000 will be made available.

General Funding Cycle Grants

Grants of up to $20,000 are available to Oregon-based organizations that champion community organizing for progressive social change (addressing the root causes of critical social justice issues by bringing people together and building their power to change political, social, and economic systems that perpetuate injustice) and/or dismantle oppression (proactively confronting privilege and dismantling oppressive structures, both within their own organizations and in the broader community). Two types of grants are available: Community Grants (up to $10,000 for small and emerging community-based groups that have a budget under $100,000) and Leadership Grants (up to $20,000 for larger and more established community-based groups with budgets between $100,000 and $500,000)

Lilla Jewel Fund for Women Artists

This fund promotes the work of women artists, particularly women of color and queer women, through: inspiring grantees to see the potential of adding art as an organizing tool; using art that especially reflects the struggles and vision of marginalized communities, including people of color and queer or low-income people; providing grantees with access to women artists who will help them create artistic tools and teach them how to create tools on their own in the future; and supporting grantees to make grate use of the tools.

Peace Fund

This program supports Oregon-based organizations that work to build connections between peace and social justice, drawing new people into progressive movements, and organizing to direct policy and resources away from war and into peace and social justice. The fund supports groups that are organizing effective opposition to U.S. national security policies, opposing unjust international wars and military actions, developing peaceful alternatives to highly-militarized foreign policies, countering nuclear arms proliferation, and advocating for the decommissioning of nuclear power plants and the appropriate disposal of nuclear waste. Eligible organizations must have an operating budget of $300,000 or less; priority will be given to groups that work on the grassroots level to dismantle oppressive structures, such as racism, sexism, classism, heterosexism, and ableism. Grants of up to $5,000 will be awarded.

Travel Grants

The purpose of the program is to provide up to $1,000 in funding to smaller Oregon social change groups who have previously received funding from the foundation, to enable their representatives to participate in conferences or training opportunities. Groups must have an overall organizational budget of $300,000 or less; proposals should assist in the group's organizational development and/or further the social change organizing of the applicant organization.

Fred G. Meyer‡

Background

Trust established by will in 1978; obtained IRS status in 1982 in OR.

Born in 1886 into a family of Brooklyn grocers, Mr. Meyer traveled west in 1905, working his way through the wheat fields of the Dakotas and Montana, and the gold fields of Alaska. After building a door-to-door coffee business in Oregon, he established a coffee retail outlet in a downtown street market that he subsequently managed. Next, he invested everything he had in an "all package" grocery store. At the time of Mr. Meyer's death five decades later, the Fred Meyer chain of stores employed more than 13,000 people on annual sales exceeding $1 billion.

The trust is a signatory to Philanthropy's Promise, and consequently, will be committing a significant percentage of their grantmaking dollars to meeting the needs of underserved communities, including the financial support of advocacy and civic engagement.

Limitations

Giving limited to programs operating in the state of OR and Clark County, WA.

No support for sectarian or religious organizations for religious purposes, for animal welfare organizations, animal-assisted therapy programs, or projects that primarily benefit students of a single K-12 school (unless the school is an independent alternative school primarily serving low-income and/or special needs populations)

No grants to individuals or for endowment funds, annual campaigns, general fund drives, special events, sponsorships, direct replacement funding for activities previously supported by federal, state, or local public sources, deficit financing, acquisition of land for conservation purposes (except through Program Related Investments), or hospital capital construction projects (except through Program Related Investments)

Purpose and Activities

The trust works with and invest in organizations, communities, ideas and efforts that contribute to a flourishing and equitable Oregon.

Program Area(s)

The grantmaker has identified the following area(s) of interest:

Grassroots Grants

Grassroots Grants range from $1,000 to $40,000. This program is limited to tax-exempt organizations operating in Oregon and Clark County, WA. The Grassroots Grants program allows the trust to assist a large number of worthy organizations with a wide variety of small projects that are limited in scope, but nevertheless significant for the applicant organization. The maximum organization budget is $2,000,000. It is unlikely that many of these grants will go to large organizations. Guidelines available on the trust's web site. Online application.

Matching Gifts

The trust matches the monetary gifts and donated time of its employees to charitable organizations.

Program-Related Investments

MMT seeks opportunities to make program-related investments (PRI's) to strengthen and expand the impact of the trust's work in Oregon and Clark County, WA. PRI's take the form of loans, loan guarantees, and equity investments that utilize capital to support a charitable project or activity. They help extend the reach of the trust's grantmaking by aiding grantees in attracting other conventional sources of capital. Online application.

Responsive Grants

Responsive Grants are awarded for a wide array of activities in the areas of human services, health, affordable housing, community development, conservation and environment, public affairs, arts and culture and education. They generally range from $41,000 to $300,000, with grant periods from one to three (and occasionally three) years. Responsive grants help support many kinds of projects, including core operating support, strengthening organizations, building and renovating facilities, and program support. Such grants are limited to organizations operating in Oregon and Clark County, WA. Guidelines and application process available on the Trust's web site. All applications online.

The program is available to all regular, part-time, and full-time employees and retirees.

Jeans Day Program

The Jeans Day Program allows employees to donate $100 to a nonprofit partner - in exchange they can wear jeans every Friday. The Standard matches each donation dollar for dollar, and in 2011 this partnership raised more than $200,000 for food banks in the U.S.

Volunteer Expo

Each September, The Standard hosts Oregon's largest Volunteer Expo in Portland, OR and Cincinnati, OH, to help connect employees and members of the community with the local volunteer opportunities that match their interests and expertise. Representatives from local and national nonprofits share their mission and volunteer opportunities.

Capacity Building

This program is committed to developing individual and organizational competencies and capabilities that contribute to sustainability and effectiveness. More information is available on the foundation website.

Conservation Law and Policy

This program focuses on two interconnected aspects of conservation law and policy: Safeguarding the integrity and application of important U.S. federal laws and policies that help protect wild lands, including, but not limited to the Endangered Species Act, Federal Lands Policy and Management Act, National Environmental Policy Act, National Forest Management Act and the Northwest Forest Plan and increasing awareness of the importance of conservation laws and policies by key audiences, including legislators, legislative staff, government officials, agency and department directors and staff.

Conservation Science

This program was created to inform and integrate science grantmaking with the foundation's core environmental values. This program is intended to enhance the ability of regional programs and their grantees to effectively adopt and share scientific information, methods, tools and solutions. More information is available on the foundation's website.

Priority Regions
