Annie E. Casey‡

James E. "Jim" Casey‡

And members of the Casey family

Background

Incorporated in 1948 in CA.

Founded by the late James E. "Jim" Casey, one of the founders of United Parcel Service, and his siblings, George, Harry, and Marguerite, who named the philanthropy in honor of their mother.

Limitations

Giving on a national basis, with emphasis on the ten sites that consist of the Making Connections initiative, as well as the foundation civic sites in Baltimore, MD, New Haven, CT, and Atlanta, GA.

No support for political committees-529s (PACs)

No grants to individuals (except for Casey Children and Family Fellowship Program), or for capital projects or medical research.

Purpose and Activities

The primary mission of the foundation is to foster public policies, human service reforms, and community supports that more effectively meet the needs of today's vulnerable children and families. In pursuit of this goal, the foundation makes grants that help states, cities, and communities fashion more innovative, cost-effective responses to these needs.

Program Area(s)

The grantmaker has identified the following area(s) of interest:

Assuring Children and Youth Have a Lasting Family Relationship

The foundation seeks to improve the ability of public child welfare systems to preserve permanent families, improve the quality of service received by youth in care, and make a measurable, positive difference in the lives of the vulnerable kids and families through key investments: 1) Casey Family Services is the foundation's direct service agency, which provides a comprehensive range of services to vulnerable children - including permanency planning, long-term foster family care, reunification and post-adoptive services, and assistance for youth transitioning out of foster care. The agency will end operations June 30, 2013; 2) KIDS COUNT collects and publishes national and state-by-state data on the condition of kids and families so that researchers, advocates, legislators, and policymakers can understand and analyze trends in child outcomes; 3) Family to Family seeks to reduce the number of children in institutions by placing more children in family settings or foster homes in their own neighborhoods, and to avoid unnecessary placements by preserving and supporting biological families; and 4) Child and Family Fellowship is a 20-month leadership development program for accomplished professionals. It explicitly strives to increase the pool of leaders with the vision and ability to frame and sustain major system reforms and community capacity-building initiatives that benefit large numbers of children and families.

Building Supportive Communities That Strengthen Families

The foundation seeks to advance the belief that distressed communities can be transformed into family-supportive environments that improve outcomes for low-income families and their kids. The principal investments towards building supportive communities include: 1) Making Connections, a multi-year and multi-site initiative, is designed to demonstrate that improving the quality of the neighborhoods in which our most vulnerable kids and families live can make a measurable difference in the quality of their lives and the outcomes they achieve. Through technical assistance, access to best practices, and the strategic investment of targeted program dollars, Making Connections sites prove that children do well when their families do well, and families do better when they live in supportive communities; 2) East Baltimore Development Initiative is a plan to reverse historic trends and transform East Baltimore, Maryland from a disinvested neighborhood into a healthy and thriving community that can support and strengthen its families. The foundation is committed to ensuring that the nearly 800 families affected by or being relocated to make way for a new life sciences facility, are treated fairly, and more importantly, in the end have an improved quality of life; and 3) FAMILIES COUNT honors organizations that improve the odds for the most vulnerable children by giving them strong, capable and economically successful families. The 46 organizations honored since 2000 connect families to the resources, supports and opportunities they need to succeed, and provide compelling evidence that the outcomes for children in some of the nation's toughest communities can change when we all build on their families' strengths.

Children and Family Fellowship

The fellowship is a 20-month leadership development program for accomplished professionals. It explicitly strives to increase the pool of leaders with the vision and ability to frame and sustain major system reforms and community capacity-building initiatives that benefit large numbers of children and families. The foundation solicits nominations for the fellowship program from a prestigious, national network of organizations and individuals who lead many of the most dynamic systems, institutions, and programs in America today. Once nominated, candidates are invited to complete a fellowship application. The Fellowship Selection Committee, comprised of a diverse team of Casey staff, Fellowship alumni, and partners in the Foundation's work, reviews all applications and recommends candidates for further consideration. ### Ensuring Children are Healthy and Ready to Succeed in School

The foundation invests in efforts that promote the healthy development of young children, increase educational success for children in low-income communities, and strengthen connections between schools and families. The foundation believes that over time these strategies can close the achievement gaps for children in tough neighborhoods. By focusing on the needs of children from pre-birth to age three, attending to the needs of informal child care providers, and promoting models that can have a neighborhood-wide impact, the foundation expects to see an increase in children's cognitive, physical, and social development as well as increased success at school. The following strategies are critical for achieving this result: 1) School Readiness and Early Childhood: The foundation's efforts in the areas served by the Making Connections Initiative, connect families and their child care providers to the resources they needed to improve the quality of nurturing they give to young children; and 2) Education: Reforms cultivate schools that can provide high quality, culturally competent educational experiences, with parents involved in their children's education. Casey's work in school readiness involves attention to the quality of education in the early elementary grades.

Helping Youth in Foster Care Transition to Adulthood

The foundation aims to establish a set of basic connections to help the 3.8 million youth between the ages of 18 - 24 who aren't employed or in school make a smooth transition to adulthood. Together with its investments in social networks, family strengthening, improving the design and delivery of effective child welfare services, the foundation hopes to help these youth become responsible adults. In addition to the investments in Casey Family Services, the following investments support the commitment to at-risk youth: 1) Juvenile Detention Alternatives Initiative provides strong screening tools, relevant data, and more effective community-based alternatives to incarceration, so that systems can significantly reduce the unnecessary confinement of youth in overcrowded, unsafe detention centers - without posing a basic threat to public safety. These cost-effective reforms have simultaneously reduced recidivism and saved significant resources; 2) School-to-Career Partnership provides job placement and support services to help transitioning youth get, keep, and advance in adult careers. The initiative links youth aging out of foster care to good "first job" experiences with quality employers such as UPS, Home Depot, Loews, CVS, and Marriott and provides ongoing case management and other supports to help youth advance in the workplace, further their education, and develop critical life skills; and 3) Jim Casey Youth Opportunities Initiative (JCYOI) is a national effort formed to address the multitude of challenges that face the approximately 20,000 young people who "age out" of the foster care system when they turn 18 and support their successful transition to adulthood.

Improving Social and Economic Conditions of Families in the Poorest Communities

The foundation is committed to building better financial futures for low-income working families and their children. The foundation invests in efforts that increase the family's ability to provide real economic security through skill-building, job-advancement, tax credits and other income supports, savings and asset building. Investments in this area address workforce development, family economic support, and community investment. The foundation's major investments in family economic success include: 1) Centers for Working Families are neighborhood-based centers or networks that provide low-income working families with a broad range of employment, work support, income building, and asset protection programs. These Centers streamline rules, integrate supports, reduce transaction costs, and help families connect to the programs and services they need; 2) National Tax Campaign for Working Families promotes greater awareness of the tax code benefits among low-income families, offers low-cost or free tax preparation and incorporates the use of tax refunds as part of an overall asset-building strategy; and 3) The Rural Family Economic Success Initiative addresses the significant economic barriers affecting rural America, including Earned Income Tax Credit campaigns, asset-building strategies, employment supports and opportunities for rural workers.

Fred G. Meyer‡

Background

Trust established by will in 1978; obtained IRS status in 1982 in OR.

Born in 1886 into a family of Brooklyn grocers, Mr. Meyer traveled west in 1905, working his way through the wheat fields of the Dakotas and Montana, and the gold fields of Alaska. After building a door-to-door coffee business in Oregon, he established a coffee retail outlet in a downtown street market that he subsequently managed. Next, he invested everything he had in an "all package" grocery store. At the time of Mr. Meyer's death five decades later, the Fred Meyer chain of stores employed more than 13,000 people on annual sales exceeding $1 billion.

The trust is a signatory to Philanthropy's Promise, and consequently, will be committing a significant percentage of their grantmaking dollars to meeting the needs of underserved communities, including the financial support of advocacy and civic engagement.

Limitations

Giving limited to programs operating in the state of OR and Clark County, WA.

No support for sectarian or religious organizations for religious purposes, for animal welfare organizations, animal-assisted therapy programs, or projects that primarily benefit students of a single K-12 school (unless the school is an independent alternative school primarily serving low-income and/or special needs populations)

No grants to individuals or for endowment funds, annual campaigns, general fund drives, special events, sponsorships, direct replacement funding for activities previously supported by federal, state, or local public sources, deficit financing, acquisition of land for conservation purposes (except through Program Related Investments), or hospital capital construction projects (except through Program Related Investments)

Purpose and Activities

The trust works with and invest in organizations, communities, ideas and efforts that contribute to a flourishing and equitable Oregon.

Program Area(s)

The grantmaker has identified the following area(s) of interest:

Grassroots Grants

Grassroots Grants range from $1,000 to $40,000. This program is limited to tax-exempt organizations operating in Oregon and Clark County, WA. The Grassroots Grants program allows the trust to assist a large number of worthy organizations with a wide variety of small projects that are limited in scope, but nevertheless significant for the applicant organization. The maximum organization budget is $2,000,000. It is unlikely that many of these grants will go to large organizations. Guidelines available on the trust's web site. Online application.

Matching Gifts

The trust matches the monetary gifts and donated time of its employees to charitable organizations.

Program-Related Investments

MMT seeks opportunities to make program-related investments (PRI's) to strengthen and expand the impact of the trust's work in Oregon and Clark County, WA. PRIs take the form of loans, loan guarantees, and equity investments that utilize capital to support a charitable project or activity. They help extend the reach of the trust's grantmaking by aiding grantees in attracting other conventional sources of capital. Online application.

Responsive Grants

Responsive Grants are awarded for a wide array of activities in the areas of human services, health, affordable housing, community development, conservation and environment, public affairs, arts and culture and education. They generally range from $41,000 to $300,000, with grant periods from one to three (and occasionally three) years. Responsive grants help support many kinds of projects, including core operating support, strengthening organizations, building and renovating facilities, and program support. Such grants are limited to organizations operating in Oregon and Clark County, WA. Guidelines and application process available on the Trust's web site. All applications online.

Melvin Jack Murdock‡

Background

Trust established in 1975 in WA.

Founded in the name of M.J. Murdock. The charitable trust was created under the will of the late Melvin Jack Murdock, a resident of Vancouver, Washington and co-founder and chairman of Tektronix, Inc. It was funded by the transfer of assets from the Murdock estate on June 30, 1975.

Limitations

Giving primarily in the Pacific Northwest (AK, ID, MT, OR, and WA).

No support for government programs; projects common to many organizations without distinguishing merit; sectarian or religious organizations whose principal activities are for the benefit of their own members; no organizations which in policy or practice unfairly discriminate against race, ethnic origin, sex, creed, or religion.

No grants to individuals, or for deficit financing, debt retirement, political activities, generally no grants for annual campaigns, general support, continuing support, endowments, or emergency funds.

Purpose and Activities

To strengthen and enrich the educational and cultural environment of the Pacific Northwest by providing grants to organizations that seek the same with creative and sustainable approaches. Emphasis is placed on the chief executive officer's strategic priority.

Program Area(s)

The grantmaker has identified the following area(s) of interest:

Arts and Culture

The trust is interested in performance and visual arts projects that enrich the cultural environment of the region. There is a high value placed on educational outreach efforts.

Education

The trust considers educational projects offered in both formal and informal settings. Special interest is afforded to private higher education.

Employee Matching Gifts

The trust matches gifts made to eligible organizations by trust employees and trustees.

Exceptional Opportunity Grants Program

This program supports projects for select public research universities that have special merit but require one-time funding because of time constraints, no immediate source of funding, or some other unusual circumstance.

Health and Human Services

The trust is interested in a diverse range of projects to enhance the quality of life in the region. Preventive efforts that address physical, spiritual, social and psychological needs, especially those focused on youth, are preferred.

Murdock College Research Program for the Life Sciences

This program is designed to support research in the life sciences at private, predominantly undergraduate colleges and universities in the trust's grantmaking region.

Murdock College Science Research Program

The goal of this program is to strengthen faculty and undergraduate student research efforts in the natural sciences at private, predominantly undergraduate colleges and universities in the trust's grantmaking region.

Partners in Science Program

This program provides research opportunities for science-trained high school science teachers to work for two summers with investigators in academic labs in cutting-edge research.

Research Start-up Grants for New Science Faculty

This program provides funding to supplement the establishment of new faculty positions in the natural sciences at private, predominantly undergraduate colleges and universities in the trust's grantmaking region.

Scientific Research Grants

The trust prefers requests for projects in the natural sciences where the main objective is the acquisition of new knowledge. Requests for research in engineering and medicine are also eligible. Training students in conducting research is an important consideration. Eligibility for scientific research grants is limited. Select public research universities and medical institutes located within the five-state region are typically considered for funding. A letter of inquiry is required unless your organization has received a trust grant for scientific research within the last five years. If you are uncertain about your eligibility, contact Dana L. Miller, Sr. Prog. Dir., tel.: (360) 694-8415 or contact the trust via e-mail on its web site.
